

PRO BONO SPOTLIGHT

August 2018 – Michael B. George

We would like to recognize Mr. Michael George for his pro bono work. Michael George, a trial attorney with Polsinelli PC, is KCMBF's August Military Matters Spotlight honoree. Michael's practice is focused on medical malpractice, as well as general business and liability litigation. He has represented health care organizations, institutions, and professionals in disputes involving technical and complex subject matter. Mike works with clients that require more than a strong trial lawyer—they want an attorney who understands the relationships between law, technology and medicine, and is able to apply these understandings to protect their rights, interests, and bottom line. Prior to joining Polsinelli PC, Michael defended physicians and physician practice groups in all phases of disputes, from pre-litigation negotiations through trial. And as a former Assistant District Attorney, Michael prosecuted numerous jury trials including cases involving business fraud and embezzlement—invaluable experience that afforded him first-hand insight into how juries consider the evidence and issues of a case.

Michael has been a dedicated Military Matters volunteer attorney since the program's launch in 2016 and has performed more than 100 hours of pro-bono service to our men and women in the military. Not only has his service been recognized by Military Matters, but he is also a recent recipient of the Project Pro Bono Champion award. Below are just a few of the cases Mike has taken on for the Military Matters program.
