

PRO BONO SPOTLIGHT

October 2019 – Joshua W. Peter

For the month of October, Josh Peter, Partner at Solomon & Peter LLP, has been chosen to receive the #MilitaryMatters #ProBonoSpotlight. Josh enjoys focusing his practice in criminal defense and explained why by saying, “There is always a new, entertaining story every day.”

While in high school, Josh was actively being recruited by the military. During recruitment, he took the ASVAB (Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery)—a test which measures which military jobs are best suited for a person—and his results, now serendipitous, indicated “attorney” as an ideal career. Sadly, Josh sustained a serious injury playing high school football and was unable to pursue a military career. However, he did decide to follow the ASVAB and pursue a legal career. Along his path to becoming a lawyer he has worked a variety of jobs including a farm, construction, and waiting tables at George Brett’s, where he enjoyed watching Monday Night Football with Tony Gonzalez on a regular basis.

Josh has always had great respect for the service and sacrifice made by all military service members, and he recognizes society often neglects these individuals in their darkest hour. There is a need to give back. For Josh, and Solomon & Peter LLP, Military Matters is more than just a way to help, it addresses that need. Currently, every attorney at the firm is assisting on multiple Military Matters referrals.

MILITARY MATTERS

PRO BONO SPOTLIGHT

Outside the office and courtroom, Josh fancies himself an outdoors enthusiast. He and his wife, Meghan enjoy spending time outside with their two sons. Josh enjoys golfing, fishing, and coaching his son's baseball team. We thank you, Josh, for your dedicated work to KCMBF Military Matters!

MILITARY MATTERS